ORDER-IN-APPEAL

The Deputy Commissioner of Customs (Review), Custom House, Mundra, (hereinafter referred to as 'the appellant department') have filed the present appeal in terms of Section 129D (4) of the Customs Act, 1962 on the basis of Authorization/Review Order No. 23/OIO/2025-26 dated 18.02.2026 issued by the Commissioner of Customs, Mundra, challenging Order-in-Original No. MCH/523/VKS/AC/Gr.3/2025-26 dated 29.12.2025 (hereinafter referred to as "the impugned order") passed by the Assistant Commissioner, Customs, Import Assessment, Gr.03, Custom House, Mundra (hereinafter referred to as "the adjudicating authority") in case of M/s Sunrise Logistics, 7/232, Sundar Vihar, Paschim Vihar, Near Post Office, New Delhi, Delhi - 110087 (hereinafter referred to as 'the respondent').

2. Briefly stated, facts of the case are that the respondent, imported PU belts under Bills of Entry dated 23.09.2021 and 24 09.2021, declaring them as leather or composition leather accessories under CTH 42034090 and paying customs duty at 10%. On examination, it was found that the belts are made of polyurethane (PU), a synthetic plastic material, and not leather As per the HSN notes, such plastic-based imitation leather articles are classifiable under CTH 39262091, attracting customs duty at 15%.

2.1 The misclassification resulted in a short levy of duty of Rs. 13,882/- on goods valued at Rs 2,13,900/- The respondent self-assessed the bills but incorrectly declared the classification, violating the provisions of Section 46(4) of the Customs Act. The short payment of duty is recoverable along with interest under Sections 28(4) and 28AA.

2.2 The mis-declaration of the goods under CTH 42034090 amounts to a material misstatement. As per Section 111(m) of the Customs Act, such goods are liable for confiscation. However, as the goods have already been cleared and are not available physically, confiscation cannot be effected.

2.3 Due to the deliberate misclassification and evasion of duty, the respondent is also liable for penalty under Section 114A of the Customs Act. In conclusion, the goods should be reclassified under CTH 39262091, the differential duty with interest is recoverable, the goods are liable for confiscation in principle, and penalty is imposed on the respondent.

2.4 The respondent neither appeared for personal hearing nor submitted any written submission.

2.5 After carefully examining the Show Cause Notice dated 01.01.2025, case records, import documents, audit observations, and relevant tariff provisions, the Adjudicating Authority found that the main issue for decision is the correct classification of the imported goods described as "PU Belts The respondent had self-assessed the goods under CTH 42034090 as leather or composition leather articles and paid Basic Customs Duty (BCD) at 10%.

2.6 On detailed examination, it is found that the impugned goods are made of polyurethane (PU), which is a synthetic polymer and a form of plastic. PU belts, commonly marketed as "PU leather belts" or "synthetic leather belts, do not contain natural leather or composition leather. Their essential character is derived from polyurethane, and mere visual resemblance to leather does not determine tariff classification. As per HSN Explanatory Notes, imitation leather made of plastics is excluded from Chapter 42 and is correctly classifiable under Chapter 39.

2.7 Accordingly, the PU belts merit classification under CTH 39262091 as articles of apparel and clothing accessories of plastics, attracting BCD at the rate of 15% The respondent's classification under CTH 42034090 resulted in short payment of duty amounting to 13,882/-. The misclassification is found to be intentional, as the respondent failed to correctly declare the material composition and applicable duty rate while self-assessing the Bills of Entry

2.8 Such mis-declaration of a material particular attracts the provisions of Section 111(m) of the Customs Act, 1962, rendering the goods liable to confiscation. However, since the goods are no longer available for physical confiscation, no redemption fine is imposed. Further, in view of the wilful misclassification leading to short payment of duty, the respondent is held liable for penalty under Section 114A of the Customs Act, 1962.

3. The appellant department has contended that the adjudicating authority has erred in holding that redemption fine under Section 125 of the Customs Act, 1962 is not imposable merely on the ground that the goods were not physically available for confiscation. Being aggrieved by the non-imposition of redemption fine in lieu of confiscation in the impugned order on account of such non-availability, the appellant department has preferred the present appeal, inter alia, contending as under:

- "The adjudicating authority has erred in law by holding that redemption fine under Section 125 of the Customs Act, 1962 is not imposable merely because the goods are not physically available for confiscation. The authority failed to appreciate that the statutory trigger for imposition of redemption fine is the authorization of confiscation, and not the physical availability of goods. Once goods are held liable to confiscation under Section 111 or Section 113 of the Customs Act, the power to impose redemption fine automatically flows under Section 125 of the Act.
- The Hon'ble Madras High Court in M/s Visteon Automotive Systems India Pvt. Ltd., reported at 2018 (9) G.S.T.L. 142 (Mad.), has conclusively held that:

  Penalty under Section 112 and redemption fine under Section 125 operate in two distinct fields;

  Redemption fine is imposed in lieu of confiscation of goods;

  The opening words of Section 125, "Whenever confiscation of any goods is authorised by this Act", clearly establish that physical availability of goods is not necessary for imposition of redemption fine; and Redemption fine is intended to avoid the consequences flowing from confiscation under Section 111 of the Act.

  The adjudicating authority has failed to follow this binding judgment, rendering the impugned order legally unsustainable.

- The Hon'ble Gujarat High Court in M/s Synergy Fertichem Ltd., reported at 2020 (33) G.S.T.L. 513 (Guj.), has reaffirmed the above legal position and expressly followed the judgment of the Hon'ble Madras High Court in Visteon Automotive Systems. The Hon'ble Court held that the prerequisite for offering redemption fine is the finding that the goods are liable to confiscation. The Court further clarified that non-availability of goods does not bar the imposition of redemption fine. The impugned order is in direct conflict with this authoritative pronouncement.
- The Hon'ble CESTAT, West Zonal Bench, Ahmedabad, in Van Oord India Pvt. Ltd. (Customs Appeal No. 10679/2024-DB, Order dated 13.11.2025), has categorically held that:

Physical non-availability of goods does not affect confiscation or imposition of redemption fine;

The power to impose redemption fine springs from authorisation of confiscation under Section 111; and Redemption fine is meant to avoid the consequences of confiscation and save the goods from such confiscation.

The adjudicating authority, being subordinate to the jurisdictional Tribunal, was bound to follow this settled position of law.

- The appellant department further contended that the opening words of Section 125 of the Customs Act, 1962 clearly provide that "Whenever confiscation of any goods is authorised by this Act", the adjudicating authority may impose redemption fine. The statute does not prescribe physical availability of goods as a condition precedent. It is a settled legal principle that once the power of confiscation is traceable to Section 111 or Section 113 of the Act, the physical availability of goods becomes irrelevant for the purpose of imposing redemption fine. This principle applies equally to cases of improper import as well as attempted improper export.
- The appellant department further contended that in view of the settled legal position laid down by the Hon'ble Madras High Court, Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, and consistently followed by the Hon'ble CESTAT, the adjudicating authority has committed a clear error of law by not imposing redemption fine under Section 125 of the Customs Act, 1962 solely on the ground that the goods were not physically available.
- In view of the above facts and submissions, the impunged Order-in-Original passed by the Additional Commissioner of Customs, Custom House Mundra is not legal and proper and therefore, in the interest of justice, prayed to:

i. Set aside the impugned Order-in-Original to the extent it failed to impose redemption fine under Section 125 of the Customs Act, 1962.

ii. Refer the matter back to Adjudicating Authority to consider it as a fresh with regard that redemption fine is imposable irrespective of the physical availability of the goods."

4. A letter F.No.: S/49-08/CA-2/CUS/MUN/Feb/2025-26 dated 12.03.2026 was send to the respondent for submitting their comment. Personal hearing in the matter were scheduled on 17.03.2026. However, no comments were received and no one appeared for personal hearing. Hence, the appeal is taken up for decision on the basis of documents available on record.

5. It is observed that the respondent, imported PU belts under Bills of Entry dated 23.09.2021 and 24.09.2021, declaring them as leather/composition leather accessories under CTH 42034090 and paying BCD @10%. On examination, it was found that the goods were made of polyurethane (PU), a synthetic plastic material, and not leather, and as per HSN Explanatory Notes, such imitation leather articles are classifiable under CTH 39262091 attracting BCD @15%. The misclassification resulted in short-levy of duty amounting to ₹13,882/- on goods valued at ₹2,13,900/-. A Show Cause Notice dated 01.01.2025 was issued proposing reclassification, recovery of differential duty under Section 28(4) along with interest under Section 28AA, confiscation under Section 111(m), and imposition of penalty under Section 114A of the Customs Act, 1962. The respondent neither appeared for personal hearing nor submitted any reply, and the case was decided ex parte. It was held that classification must be based on the essential character of the goods, and PU belts, being plastic-based articles, are correctly classifiable under CTH 39262091; the declared classification under CTH 42034090 was incorrect and amounted to wilful misstatement under the self-assessment regime. Accordingly, the differential duty was confirmed with interest, penalty under Section 114A was imposed, and the goods were held liable for confiscation under Section 111(m); however, no redemption fine was imposed as the goods were not physically available.

5.1 It is observed that the present appeal has been preferred by the appellant department solely on the ground that the adjudicating authority failed to impose redemption fine under Section 125 of the Customs Act, 1962, merely on the basis that the goods were not physically available for confiscation. It is further observed that the impugned order does not contain any specific finding or reasoning for non-imposition of redemption fine. Accordingly, in my considered view, the impugned order, to that extent, is a non-speaking order insofar as the issue of non-imposition of redemption fine is concerned.

5.2 It is further observed that the appellant department has relied upon the following case laws

(i) M/s Visteon Automotive Systems India Pvt. Ltd., reported at 2018 (9) G.S.T.L. 142 (Mad.)

(ii) M/s Synergy Fertichem Ltd., reported at 2020 (33) G.S.T.L. 513 (Guj.)

(iii) Final Order No. 11039-11040/2025 DATED 13.11.2025 of Hon'ble CESTAT, West Zonal Bench, Ahmedabad, in the case of Van Oord India Pvt. Ltd.

Versus Commissioner of Customs, Ahmedabad in Customs Appeal No. 10679/2024-DB.
wherein it has been held that physical availability of goods is not necessary for imposition of redemption fine.

5.3 It is further observed that the appellant department has also prayed to refer the matter back to Adjudicating Authority to consider it as a fresh with regard that redemption fine is imposable irrespective of the physical availability of the goods.

5.4 In view of the foregoing, it is observed that the adjudicating authority, while passing the impugned order, has not recorded any specific finding or provided cogent reasons for non-imposition of redemption fine under Section 125 of the Customs Act, 1962. It is further noted that the appellant department has relied upon various judicial pronouncements wherein it has been consistently held that physical availability of the goods is not a sine qua non for imposition of redemption fine, and that such fine can be imposed even where the goods are no longer available. In these circumstances, I find that the matter requires reconsideration by the adjudicating authority with due application of the legal position as well as the contentions advanced by the appellant department. Accordingly, I am inclined to remand the matter to the adjudicating authority for passing a fresh, reasoned and speaking order after duly examining the grounds of appeal and affording an opportunity of hearing in accordance with the principles of natural justice.

5.5 Thus, I am of the considered view that remitting of the matter to the lower authority has becomes sine qua non to meet the ends of justice. The adjudicating authority is required to examine all the contentions raised by the appellant department and record his finding and issue order accordingly. In this regard, I rely upon the case of Prem Steels P. Ltd. - 2012-TIOL-1317-CESTAT-DEL and the case of Hawkins Cookers Ltd. -2012 (284) E.L.T. 677 (Tri. – Del), which have also relied upon the case of Medico Labs - 2004(173) ELT 117 (Guj.), wherein it has been held that Commissioner (Appeals) continue to have power of remand even after the amendment of Section 35(A) of the Central Excise Act, 1944 by Finance Act, 2001 w.e.f. 11.05.2001.

6. In light of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, the appeal filed by the appellant department is allowed by way of remand. The matter is remitted to the adjudicating authority to pass a reasoned and speaking order, in accordance with the principles of natural justice and applicable legal provisions. It is clarified that no opinion has been expressed on the merits of the case or on the submissions made by the appellant department, and the same shall be examined independently by the adjudicating authority.
